Page 26 — Inventory and Catalog Maintenance Notes

Stock handling

- Beauty products must be stored in dry, temperature-controlled areas.
- Products labelled as flammable, including fragrances and aerosol styling products, must remain in designated hazardous-goods storage.
- High-value electronic beauty devices require serial-number capture where applicable.
- Sunscreen and after-sun products are subject to seasonal allocation and should be rotated using expiry-date priority.
- Makeup shades must be verified against the SKU and shade code before dispatch.
- Damaged seals, leaking containers, or illegible batch information must be routed to the Quality Hold area.

Returns guidance

- Opened cosmetics, skincare, oral-care consumables, and personal hygiene products are generally non-resalable.
- Unopened electric beauty devices may be returned to saleable inventory only after function testing and accessory verification.
- Fragrance returns require inspection for leakage, broken seals, and packaging damage.
- Menstrual-care products must be returned to saleable inventory only when the external packaging is unopened and undamaged.

Data governance

- Product prices are maintained in the central ERP and may change independently of this reference catalog.
- Availability is an operational snapshot reviewed in August 2026.
- Warehouse shelf locations may change during seasonal re-slotting.
- Product titles and SKUs are the preferred lookup fields for customer service, purchasing, and warehouse operations.
